DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 8-13 have been withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 3 January 2006.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 14 is objected to because of the following informalities: in lines 11-12 of claim 1, it seems that "adhesive coating" should be --adhesive strip—. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 2, 6, 7, 14, 15, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cartagena (US 5,653,024).

Cartagena discloses a nail clipping receptacle including: a hollow housing (Receptacle 52) having a bottom, a pair of opposed sides (56) connected to the bottom, a back connected to the opposed sides and the bottom, and a top (58) connected to the opposed sides (6) and the back. The opposed sides (56) have a length that substantially extends along the length of the nail clippers, as discussed in column 4, lines 9-11. The top has a length less than the length of the sides (56). The top has an opening (60) sufficient to allow actuation of the lever and the jaws of the nail clippers. The housing is sized to slidably receive a portion of the nail clippers there, as discussed in column 4, lines 3-22. An adhesive coating (62) is located on an interior surface including at least one of the sides. The adhesive coating (62) is adapted to retain the nail clippings which come into contact with it. The housing is disposable (column 4, lines 53-55). The adhesive coating (62) comprises an adhesive strip (column 4, lines 57-59) and it stays tacky for an extended period of time.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 3, 5, 16, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cartagena (US 5,653,024) in view of Marroco (US 5,423,124).

Cartagena discloses the features discussed above, but does not disclose the material of the nail receptacle. Marrocco teaches making nail receptacles out of paper in column 5, line 66 to column 6, lines 8. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the receptacle of Cartagena out of paper, as taught by Marrocco, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

7. Claims 4 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cartagena (US 5,653,024) in view of Weidlich (US 6,009,880).

Cartagena discloses the features discussed above, but does not disclose the material of the nail receptacle. Weidlich teaches making nail receptacles out of plastic in claim 4. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the receptacle of Cartagena out of plastic, as taught by Weidlich, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).
